ALI GATIE
It's You

The 22-year-old Toronto native's first Hot 100 entry also holds its No. 5 peak on Hot R&B Songs for a sixth week.

What inspired the song's raw lyricism?

At heart, I'm a writer; I was always into writing books or stories. "It's You" is about trying to move on from heartbreak and open up [to] the idea of falling in love again, which is scary. Some people think being vulnerable is weak, but I think it's a strength if I'm able to tell you when I'm hurting. Writing it [took] 15 minutes.

Why was it important to you to feature people of different ages, races and religions in the music video?

Love is universal. It should not have [one] image, color, race or story. I have a huge global fan base, so I wanted to make sure my fans felt represented. And I come from a diverse background — my parents were immigrants [from Iraq].

You own your label, LISN, and signed to Warner Records last November. What made this arrangement the right fit?

Warner CEO Aaron Bay-Schuck and [I] just clicked. He had this understanding that I'm business-savvy and like to be involved. We work together to figure out which song to release and the proper marketing. When I signed, I bought my parents a car. That's emotional for me. —BIANCA GRACIE
