February 27, 2025 (Los Angeles, CA) – Honey Bxby is rewriting the R&B rulebook with her electrifying debut single, “Right On Time,” her bold new offering under Rebirth Entertainment / Warner Records. This isn’t just another track—it’s a full-throated declaration that the future of R&B is here, and it’s dripping with attitude, soul, and a cheeky twist. Listen HERE and watch HERE.

“Right On Time” is a heartfelt ride through love and liberation. Over a romantic, shape-shifting beat, Honey’s sultry, soulful vocals float effortlessly: “Half of you, but wanting all of me / Boy, I just wish you would let me be / ‘Cause Tyrone is outside and he’s calling me / And he’s right on time.” In other words, she’ll have another “you” in a minute.

The “Right On Time” video finds Honey freshly liberated and enjoying some self-care by destroying old photos of her ex. He tries his best to sabotage her budding romance, but he’s too late. Watch HERE.

Fresh off the buzz of her breakout hits “LEFT EYE” and the sultry, show-stopping “Touchin” (which even earned a nod from the queen Mary J. Blige and a remix cosign by Busta Rhymes), Honey is not just riding a wave—she’s creating a tidal surge. With every note, she effortlessly melds modern production with classic soul, proving that R&B can be both innovative and irresistibly fun.

“This song is definitely one of my favorites,” says Honey, who’s been in the studio lately. “This lives in my headphones rent-free, and any lady from 0 to 100 can relate. Everybody had somebody play with them. You have to let these men know: You want Wagyu or a Skirt steak.”

The rising R&B star recently announced her spot on SAINT JHN's Festival Season Tour, kicking off March 22 in Boston. Don’t miss the chance to witness Honey Bxby’s unmatched stage presence and vocals live! Tickets are available now—secure yours HERE.

In addition to earning looks from Billboard, VIBE, Rated R&B, UPROXX, and more, Honey has opened tours for Sexy Red and Flyana Boss and graced stages (and screens) from BET's Soul Train Awards to HOT 97 Summer Jam to Netflix's Rhythm + Flow. Now signed to Warner Records and backed by industry powerhouses including Karriem "KMack" Mack's Rebirth Ent and James McMillan's Art@ War, Honey's rise is as unstoppable as it is stylish. ABOUT HONEY BXBY:

Honey Bxby is reinventing R&B on her own terms. With unabashedly intimate lyrics and a bold personality, the New Jersey songstress singer injects rugged realness into the genre. “I’m like a rapper in a singer’s body,” she says. “You’re not gonna expect what comes out of my mouth and I live what I speak.” Honey continues her assertive journey with her Warner Records debut EP, Raw Honey, which invites fans to flip through the deeper, diaristic pages of her story. The boss chick the world met on 2023’s 3 Words, 8 Letters is still there, but her growth and versatility are on display over tender ballads, dancefloor anthems, and lushly modern musicality. One minute you’re lost in the subtly psychedelic guitar and sticky sweetness of her voice, and the next she’s lyrically roasting an ex-lover then salting his wounds. Honey’s unfiltered approach started early. She’d spend hours studying introspective storytellers like Drake and Kehlani, and her producer father helped unlock her songwriting gift in sessions together. She sang for friends and posted covers, then burst out in 2023 with her viral “Touchin’,” which earned praise from Mary J. Blige and an official remix from Busta Rhymes — a full-circle moment as her song samples his ’90s hit, “Put Your Hands Where My Eyes Could See.” Honey subsequently dropped her first project, opened tours for Sexxy Red and Flyana Boss, and graced stages from BET’s Soul Train Awards to HOT 97 Summer Jam to Netflix’s Rhythm + Flow. As she steps into her current era, Honey says, “I’m feeling more open, more confident, and definitely more selfish — in the best way.”
