December 5, 2025 (Los Angeles, CA) – After building widespread anticipation amongst fans, Platinum-certified Texan rock quintet Pecos & The Rooftops will release their anxiously awaited sophomore full-length LP, From Me To You, on January 9, 2026 via Warner Records. Of course, they preceded the record with its first-half From Me (Part One), and they'll finally complete the entire body of work with the addition of new tracks that comprise this 9-song storyline. Pre-order/Pre-save From Me To You HERE.

They also herald the arrival of their second album with a reflective and emotionally charged new single "Looking Down Proud" out now. Click HERE to stream. An equally potent music video to accompany the song will launch in the days ahead.

Frontman Pecos Hurley intentionally split the project in two distinct halves, forging From Me (Part One) out of punchier material and saving the more introspective fare for the From Me To You (Part Two) second half. As such, "Looking Down Proud" takes flight as a poignant powerhouse ballad. A softly picked acoustic guitar sets the tone for the track. Against this backdrop, frontman Pecos delivers thoughtful verses as he acknowledges, "Well time goes fast when you hit 21, learned a couple hard lessons." His feelings swell into the embrace of a heartfelt hook punctuated by an open-hearted plea, "If I could be just half the man you were, I'll get where you are now and if you see me from your castle in the clouds, I hope you're looking down proud." The track is Pecos' ultimate homage to a loved one whose light forever inspires—from this life to the next.

"Looking Down Proud" follows the recent standout "Hate Waking Up." The latter instantly reacted with listeners, surpassing 1.4 million Spotify streams and counting. Click HERE to stream

Filled with many fan-favorites From Me To You strikes a deep emotional chord. From beginning to end, the band traces a raw and real journey over the course of the record's runtime. Each song is intended to captivate and connect with relatable stories and unforgettable melodies from Pecos & The Rooftops.

In support of the album, the band will launch the From Me To You Tour 2026*. The jaunt kicks off on January 23 at Cook's Garage in Lubbock, TX, canvases the South and the Midwest, and circles back to a close on March 20 at Union 28 in Midlothian, TX. Tickets go on sale December 5th at 10am local time. Click HERE for ticket and tour details.

Thus far, From Me (Part One) has already garnered 9.4 million global streams. Across Part One's eight songs, Pecos & The Rooftops (aka PRT), ponder love-gone-wrong, everyday struggles, and toxic relationships with intoxicating songcraft and identifiable storytelling. Touting tracks from their current album From Me (Part One)*; "Back In The Bottle," "More Or Less," "Crazy Is Her Name," present Pecos & The Rooftops at their most personal, passionate, and powerful. PRT paved the way for the album with "Burnpile." The latter has already reeled in nearly 4.6 million total streams. From Me (Part One) also boasts fan favorites "11 Beers" and "Rock Song." Of the latter, Melodic.net applauded, "The Texas-based band, known for their soulful Americana sound, is moving on from a toxic relationship with this track, filled with raw emotion and powerful guitar riffs."

The band dropped their self-titled debut album back in 2023. Of course, it houses signature staples such as "5AM," "Hurt No More," "Last Thing I Remember," "Bricks," and "She Says." Beyond generating nearly a half-a-billion streams, it has earned critical applause. Music Connection chronicled their rise and highlighted how "the Texas rockers continued kicking up dust through touring and recording." Holler. praised, "It's a close-knit sense of camaraderie that shines through in their live shows." They have been perfecting a signature heavy blend of classic, guitar-driven rock with country and blues influences since their inception in Lubbock, Texas.

Formed in 2019 by a tight-knit core of college friends, the band outfits their soulful, hard-rockin' Americana with muscular guitar grit, yet remains tuneful and melodic. They've carved out a singular niche for themselves in the rich songwriting tradition of their home state, as evidenced by their debut Warner Records single "5AM," which has amassed over 37 million global streams to date. Anchored by the heart-baring songwriting and booming voice of former Marine Pecos Hurley, the band is rounded out by top-tier players Jessie Santos (lead guitar), Steven Buehler (bass), Garrett Peltier (drums) and Jared French (guitars & keys).

Pecos & The Rooftops chose their name—a nod to the part of the house they'd hang out, drink beers, and jam on—just before self-releasing their debut single, 2019's slow-burning "This Damn Song." It was a runaway success, and has just surpassed RIAA triple-Platinum certification with now over 600 million streams globally. The band hit the road and haven't looked back since, touring relentlessly on the club and festival circuit. They released their debut EP Red Eye in 2020, expanding on their already solid sound with extra emphasis on guitar structures and complex yet melodic arrangements, showcasing their love of all forms of distinctly American music. Pecos & The Rooftops have earned their devoted, ever-expanding fan base the old fashioned way; with dedication and temerity. "At the end of the day, I just want to help people with our music, honestly," Hurley says.
