May 29, 2020 (Toronto, Ont.) – Smiley has been steadily gaining traction in Toronto since 2018 with his unique cadence, voice and potent production. He now shares his most realized project to date, YYZ-LAX, a body of work recorded while traveling between Toronto and California, with every song on the project representing a specific experience on his timeline. In celebration of the release, he also dropped an artistic visual for “90210,” showcasing Toronto's stunning views. Watch it HERE.

The future is bright for Smiley, who paints vivid pictures in his lyrics, like on “90210” as he landed in LAX from Toronto and headed to Beverly Hills where he shopped and did some sightseeing. Then on “San Ysidro,” Smiley references where he stayed and is actually the first song made for this project. “103 degrees” was the temperature the pool was set to every night at the house while he listened to music. “Hendricks” refers to the drink of choice (Hennessy) and is the catalyst to a boastful Smiley on this song. “Warner” references his second figurative home musically. And the track, “Vegas” caps off the project. Take a trip with Smiley as he leads you through this chapter of his journey.

ABOUT SMILEY

A product of the streets of Toronto, Smiley turns danger into art. He began releasing music in 2018 with his street classic Buy. or. Bye and built a buzz around his originality, backed with street credibility and the ability to bring his first-person experiences to life in his music. He followed that project with A Tape To Remember and Road To Buy or Bye 2 (The Playlist), blazing a trail for himself as he fed the appetite of the streets with new music. Narrating his story in real-time Smiley's influence also has been touted by The FADER and hometown hero Drake, as well as revered amongst the community in the burgeoning Toronto music scene.
