ABOUT SAVANNAH CRISTINA:

R&B singer and songwriter Savannah Cristina practices "soul therapy." The vocalist's show-stopping voice, poetic confessions, and warm spirit flip feelings of pain into prowess, sadness into joy, and loss into love. Amassing approximately 14 million views, generating 16 million streams, and attracting the endorsements of everyone from Alicia Keys to The FADER thus far, the Florida-born songstress both captivates and heals on her 2020 debut for Warner Records. After a childhood singing and writing poetry, the South Florida artist dropped her debut single “Spend It On Me” in 2016. Fueling a buzz around her hometown, she launched a series of independent releases—Faded, Mango Season, and Florida Girl. At the end of 2019, the single and video “Self-Care” caught fire. Sparse finger-snaps and gentle guitar sway beneath emotionally charged verses as the track builds towards a stunning, yet soothing refrain. Directed and shot by Savannah in front of the ocean, the accompanying visual went viral to the tune of 5 million views and counting. In January 2020, GRAMMY® Award-winning icon Alicia Keys touted it in a Genius Cosign clip. Now with more music and performances on the horizon, Savannah’s “soul therapy” will make an impact for a long time to come.
