August 21, 2020 (Los Angeles, CA) – Critically acclaimed Warner Records singer/songwriter/poet Savannah Cristina has unveiled a new single and video entitled “Gold Mine.” Check it out HERE. Once again, her robust vocals take center stage over a sultry soundscape, bold beat, and nineties-style groove.

Tonight, Savannah takes the stage for a very special hometown show and screening of the music video for “Gold Mine.” Savannah will deliver a set of fan favorites and singles during her drive-in live performance from 7:30pm-10:30pm ET. Remaining tickets may be purchased HERE. The special event follows a series of high-profile performances by Savannah. She recently took over

Quibi's Musicology with a show-stopping rendition of her major label debut single "Comfortable" and captivated with her stunning appearance on MTV's "#AloneTogether Jam Session."

Earlier this summer, she revealed "F'd Up" [feat. Flo Milli]. UPROXX touted the song among "All The Best New R&B From This Week That You Need To Hear" and called it, "an honest track about what not to put up with in a relationship." Meanwhile, Rated R&B wrote, "Cristina makes it very clear that she is not here to play games with any man who isn't ready to love her the right way." Right now, Savannah is preparing to release her debut EP.

Savannah made waves in 2020 with the release of "Comfortable." Flaunt Magazine proclaimed, "The song is likened to a soul-intoxicating delicacy, it immerses you into a land of smooth vocals, reminiscent of early Brandy and Badu performances." Ones To Watch commented, "The Florida-born songstress has a voice so buttery, so smooth, it could soothe the most erratic of moods." REVOLT TV highlighted how the self-directed visual "sees the breathtaking artist performing the song in different locations within what looks like her residence, giving off an aura that makes it easy for anyone to lower their stress levels." She also hit the stage at the pre-event for the 13th annual Roots Picnic Virtual Experience with performances of "Comfortable" and an impassioned cover of the Sam Cooke classic "A Change Is Gonna Come."

ABOUT SAVANNAH CRISTINA:

R&B singer and songwriter Savannah Cristina practices "soul therapy." The vocalist's show-stopping voice, poetic confessions, and warm spirit flip feelings of pain into prowess, sadness into joy, and loss into love. Amassing 17 million views, generating nearly 17 million streams, and attracting the endorsements of everyone from Alicia Keys to The FADER thus far, the Florida-born songstress both captivates and heals on her 2020 debut for Warner Records. After a childhood singing and writing poetry, the South Florida artist dropped her debut single “Spend It On Me” in 2016. Fueling a buzz around her hometown, she launched a series of independent releases—Faded, Mango Season, and Florida Girl. At the end of 2019, the single and video “Self-Care” caught fire. Sparse finger-snaps and gentle guitar sway beneath emotionally charged verses as the track builds towards a stunning, yet soothing refrain. Directed and shot by Savannah in front of the ocean, the accompanying visual went viral to the tune of 5.3 million views and counting. In January 2020, GRAMMY® Award-winning icon Alicia Keys touted it in a Genius Cosign clip. Now with more music and performances on the horizon, Savannah’s “soul therapy” will make an impact for a long time to come.
