July 2, 2021 (Los Angeles, CA) –After making waves, piling on streams, receiving looks from Los Angeles Times, The FADER, Pigeons & Planes and more, Los Angeles band Junior Varsity unveil a brand new single entitled “Weather” [feat. spill tab] today via Warner Records.

The duo of Greg Aram and Zach Michel deliver another highly quotable genre-breaking anthem. On the track, Zach's guitar cuts through his glitchy production as Greg admits, “You made my levels change, like tequila” and “I need love.” Meanwhile, spill tab appears with a celestial bridge, showcasing her impressive range and haunting timbre. The video showcases youth at its purest where a group of friends journey through all that a regular summer day has to offer. It's the perfect backdrop for a gorgeous song that plays out like the soundtrack to memories of the distant past.

Regarding the single, the band said, “Weather’ is about leaving NY for LA in hopes of chasing dreams, but still feeling left emotionally empty—good weather masking depression, but still making it a little bit better.”

Over the past couple of months, Junior Varsity have unapologetically stirred up headlines. The duo propelled themselves into the national news cycle after Aram and two comrades draped a giant cow head over the first “O” on the Hollywood Sign in celebration of the band’s long-awaited debut single “Cold Blood.” The guys spoke to the Los Angeles Times at length about these antics, their come-up, and so much more. Everybody agreed, “Cow is king.” Zane Lowe also premiered “Cold Blood” on Apple Music’s Beats 1 and FADER included it among “The Best Rock Songs Right Now.” Right out of the gate, it amassed over 2 million streams and counting.

It all paves the way for more music from Junior Varsity—coming soon.

PRESS ON "COLD BLOOD":

a fearless shot at the moon that emits enough confidence to make you think they might just make it." - THE FADER

"a hazy alt-rock bolt of electricity, infused with nonchalance and casual charm" - ONES TO WATCH

"perfect clash of alternative and hip hop with plenty of lo-fi fuzz, it's equal parts arresting and endearing making a fitting introduction for fans who feel they've had an access-all-areas pass to watch the band develop." - THE LINE BEST FIT

ABOUT JUNIOR VARSITY:

Junior Varsity is the Los Angeles duo of Greg Aram and Zach Michel, whose music is inspired by rock and hip-hop from the early 2000s. They infuse their songwriting with thoughtful storytelling and transfer that passion to the stage with high-energy live shows. Their performances have garnered early press support from Ones To Watch, and Pigeons & Planes. In a rare move, the duo built up enough fan support to headline multiple nights at 200 capacity clubs in LA & NY, all without having released any music online. Junior Varsity's aim is to cause disruption in the name of social progress.
